Q&A

Are CPC's retro locks identical to the detention locks currently used in our facility? Yes. We engineer them off the original lock design, so they fit your existing door and frame preparation. But in terms of quality and reliability, we build our retro locks to actually be superior to the OEM locks.

Are your parts interchangeable with the original manufacturer's design? Yes. And because we stock parts for immediate delivery, we can provide critical items faster than the OEM.

Can you supply "old style" locks that the OEM has discontinued? Yes. See the photos on the cover. However, due to numerous custom installations, we recommend that you contact us to verify your specific requirements.

What brands do you retrofit, and what type of warranty do you offer? CPC retro locks cover the 120 series from Southern Steel, Folger Adam and RR Brink. We back our retro locks with the industry-standard one-year parts and labor warranty.
